
There are strict requirements for the conditions in which High Risk Work Licence training and assessing can be conducted. It is usually not a problem to conduct this course on a clients site however we must confirm compliance prior to training commencing. It is the client's responsibility to confirm that the following is in order prior to signing the booking confirmation forms.

- The order picker/turret truck must comply with Aust. Standard AS2359. (Generally any forklift supplied by a reputable supplier would have been compliant upon delivery).
- The order picker/turret truck also must be fully operational including all lights, horn, safety devices etc.
- Maintenance records must be available.
- Must have a log book or electronic files for pre-operation checks.
- Must have the Operators manual (can be obtained from the manufacturer).
- If using an operator elevated turret truck, at least 3 VARIED LOADS suitable for the Turret Truck and within its rated capacity, must be supplied. Each of the 3 loads must weigh at least 250kg.
- For Order Pickers at least 3 loads that can be manually handled safely are required.
- For Order Pickers/Turret Trucks, Fall Arrest Equipment meeting Australian Standards must be available (If not please advise and Forkpro Australia will provide these).
- A suitable dedicated theory training room to house the number of trainees plus trainer comfortably is required (not a shared area such lunch room etc).
- Pallet racking or similar to the levels indicated below. Pallet Racking must display the manufacturers rating information. Other methods of stacking may also be acceptable.

Are loads able to be stacked to 3 levels as follows (pallet racking is preferable however safe block stacking is an alternative):

- 1st level lift is ground.
- 2nd level must be at least 25% of the order picker/turret truck full lift height.
- 3rd level must be at least 75% of the order picker/turret truck full lift height.
- Can the area be separated from pedestrian movement?
- Is there 400sq/m of operating area?

If any of the above cannot be complied with please advise the office immediately. Should any of the above not be confirmed then the site would be deemed unsuitable for training and assessment. Please feel free to send us photos if you are not sure or arrange for us to visit site.
